Movement Near Culmination.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 20.—The narrow and Varying fluctuations in the stock market and the small volume of the total transactions each day are an accurate reflection of the timid and valciliating temper of the speculative mind. The conviction is general that the condition of the bolink cadook in which the market is now held cannot last long.

The midday rally to-day was principally due to the heavy debit balance by the subtreasity at the clearing house due to the payment of $9.00,000 treasury was fiscal against of the Panama republic for the canat. This payment is to the benefit of bank cash, and will figure as an offset to the losses by gold exports.

Call money was appreciably east to day, and was offered in large amounts by the banks below two per cent. Stepling exchange also continued its downward course, encouraging the idea; that the sold movement may be reaching its culmination. COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 20, 194.—The Weekly Liverpool statement shows that the local stock of cotton in store and affoat is now 713,000 against 73:000 last year, a deficiency of only 23,000 as against a deficiency of 180,000 on April 10th. The sales for the week are only 26,000 against 48,000 last year and the amount forwarded to spinners only 38,000 against 54,000 last year. These figures speak most graphically of the diminished demand for spot cotton, and foreshadow a very bearish visible supply statement to-morrow. The coming week is Whitsundle, a general holiday closely observed not only in Lancashire, but on the continent. The European demand for spot cotton in consequence entirely disappears, and for this reason it has several times happened in the past that "Whit week has marked the collapse of some promising bull campaigns. Spot houses here report that they are being asked for offers on a surprisingly large amount of cotton held at the uncounted towns, but as there is no demand from any quarter, they can only bid on the basis of the contract market. The fact that May contracts in New Orleins are selling at 62 points under July still further attests the lack of buyers for real cotton. Were there any demand from spinners, speculators would not be willing to pay 22.65 per bale to earry cotton forty days. It is becoming apparent that much more cotton than generally supposed has been held in the invisible supply at uncounted points in the hope of higher prices, and as this hope disappears, it is likely to be pressed for sa'e, it is intended points in the hope of higher prices, and as this hope disappears it is intended points in the hope of higher prices, and as this hope of higher prices, and in the present temper of the market, and in view of the depressed condition of the dry goods trade, it is not impossible that cotton nay go as much too low as it has been nection that next month's government.

ade, it is not impossible that corten ay go as much too low as it has been it as you are too high. It is well to bear in mind in this content in the cetion that next month's government sport is generally expected to show an procease in acreage of at least ten per ent., and that the report of condition fill compare with 71.1 last year, which has the worst on record. Should the howing this year be accepted as continuatory of big crop ideas, it would preschip still further intensity the hearish entiment and lead to a flood of liquitation among holders of both spots and attrees that would be irresistible. What were reactionary power the market has year reactionary power the market has ad has been due to the covering of the short interest. This seems to be completed.

Receipts this week were rather lighter than last. The offerings was largely of the common and medium grades, but little fine shipping as wrappers being offered. Prices were a little off wher compared with prices of the past few weeks. Plants are reported backward and must be late in getting large enough to plant. The impression made after talking with planters from several counties is that the cup of to-bacco will be materially shortened this year. Low prices and scartly of labor is generally given as the cause.
